Reno, Nev., Likely to Get Willard-Dempsey Heavyweight Championship Battle

BY BERT E. COLLYER. (All rights reserved by Collyer's News Burenu.)

CHICAGO, March 29 .- "Clean Racing Here" is apparently the slogan under which the Oakiawn officials propose to conduct the present race meeting at Hot Springs. Seemingly believing that Hot Springs. Seemingly believing that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, Judge Nelson and his associates have given several riders whose reputations were not of the best, a clear understanding of the fact that they had no chance to ride there. Foremost is the case of Jockey Ensor. Notwithstanding that this rider is under contract to such an influential owner as P. A. Clark, Judge Nelson informed the boy that his presence in the saddle was not wanted at Oaklawn. Ensor quit the New Orleans meeting before its close and went to Hot Springs with an idea of accepting engagements. While no official ruling was made against him at the Crescent City, reports of ansatisfactory rides there apparently were sufficient to induce Nelson's actions.

The case of Eddle Martin offers another example of Nelson's adherence to what he thinks best for the turf. The former McDowell rider was suspended at the Hot Springs meeting one year ago. Nelson's action at the time was tweed lightly, friends of Martin appearing to believe that he would have no trouble in riding at the subsequent Mentucky meetings. The unexpected happened, however, when the Kentucky officials refused to let him ride without Nelson's consent, something which has been wijtheld ever since and which still seems in the distant future notwithstanding the efforts which have been made in Martin's behalf since the opening of the present meeting. an cunce of prevention is worth a

RENO MAY GET BIG BOUT. Preserved as a close secret for nearly three weeks, it leaked out at Reno to-day following the receipt of a telegram by one of the most prominent men in sporting circles of the Western city and confirming what has been anticipated ever since the passage of the bill legalizing boxing in this state, over Gov. Emmet D. Boyle's signature, that boxing in this state, over Gov. Emmet D. Boyle's signature, that the Jess Willard-Jack Dempsey heavy-weight championship battle will be staged in the city of divorces. The absence of any official announcement, is due, many think, to a desire on Prometer Rickard's part to get as much publicity as possible out of the bidding for the site.

With the coming of the fag end of the Havana race meeting it becomes more and more apparent that unless some sort of a miracle is performed many owners and race followers will be left there in desperate straits, half of the owners being indebted to the track for feed. Armed sentrices are now employed by the race track owners to guard the entrances, no owner or trainer being allowed to take a horse from the track without first obtaining a written permit from Curly Brown. The daily attendance has been almost nil.

Purchase is the mystery colt of 1919 George Odom, who trained for the Brighton stable which owned Purchase Brighton stable which owned Furchase says that he is the greatest out he ever saw and that he will rise to wonderful heights as a three-year-old. Despite his failure to win the Futurity as a two-year-old and his indifferent performances thereafter, Odom predicts that the Hildreth coit will be the sensation of the tracks for this year.

ORATORICAL CONTEST

RYMAN'S VOICE GIVEN

PRAISE'IN NASHVILLE

John Corbett, of Messick achool, won the oratorical contest which was held among teams from the Shelby county schools Friday night at Capleville. He spoke on "Empire Builders." Lee Person, of Bolton college, was adjudged second honor and Ford N. Taylor, Jr., of Whitehaven, third. Young Corbett got a 35 gold piece as the first prize. Others among the contestants were Vander Bryan, of Collierville: Alvah Ham, of Bagtlett, James E. Holmes, of Capleville; Robert B. Field, of Cordova; Itob Cooper, of Arlington, and Emil Moore, of Neshoba.

Miss Mildred English, principle of Capleville school, presided, and musical numbers were given by the school chorus. Judge F. M. Guthrie, H. O. Browne and J. Hamar made the awards.

MISSISSIPPI FARMERS TO DEVELOP TURKEY RAISING

ISAAC MOOK, VETERAN CITY MERCHANT, DIES

Issac Lee Mook, aged 55, one of the Isaac Lee Mook aged 55, one of the long-time business men of Memphis, who established the Mook Shirt company many years ago, and who of late had been at the head of the Rosaile Shirt company. 180 Jefferson agenue, died at the Gartly-Ramsay hospital Saturday morning after an illness of about one year. Mr. Mook is survived by his widow, Mrs. Gertrude Hexter Mook.

Prof. Virgil Day, the handsomest man in the history of the Southern league with the exception of Rube Kisainger, will pitch for the Mobile Bears this season. The professor pitched for the Atlanta Crackers two seasons ago, held out last year and remained in Arkansas, where he makes his home, but he wants to come back, and has been sold outright to Mobile. Prof. Day possesses the most unique map of any player the Southern league ever had, and when he adorns the hill, the opposing batter thinks that he is seeing things and immediately decides to sign the pledge, for Virgil's features would stop a Chinese funeral at midnight, and make the hands on an ingersoil watch run in opposite directions.

However, he can pitch, and he doesn't need to be a Francis X. Bushman as long as he can throw 'em by 'em in the Suniand league. Virgil is a right-hander and every time he pitches it looks as if the batter should knock the ball out of the lot, but somehaw they can't hit what he-effers and he is one of the leading hillmen of the league. Prof. Day's percentage is about 50 points below .000, but when it comes to propelling the baseball, the old boy is there several ways, which is what counts. Day is a schoolmaster in the winter time and wields a wicked rod on any of his pupils was decide to get funny with him.

Prof. Day should be one of Manager Bob Coloman's mainstays this season.

In connection with the booming of tennis in this country there is a movement on foot to bring Mile. Lenglen, the young French player, here this summer. Peck Griffin, one of the former national doubles champions, now an efficer of the A. E. P., writes from France that Mile. Lenglen could give Molia Bjurstedt half fifteen and beat her. Capt. R. N. Williams writes that the French girl could allow Miss Bjurstedt a full fifteen and wan from the Norse star. Since both Griz a and Williams know Since both Grif. a and Williams know Miss Bjurstedt's style and ability to a nicety, it is safe to say that Mile Lenglen is truly a remarkable player, and would prove a sensation here. If she comes it will have to be through the generosity of followers of the game, for she has not the means, and the national association will not establish a precedent and offer her expenses.
